$3,300 Veterinary Internship Stipend

Attention ALL Current 1st and 2nd Year Veterinary Students
No Experience Required

The National Pork Industry Foundation (NPIF) has provided funding for six veterinary students to gain experience in the swine industry through a summer internship with a swine practitioner. The NPIF stipends are intended for any 1st or 2nd year veterinary student, regardless of any previous swine experiences. Students with little to no experience are highly encouraged to apply. The swine industry is rapidly changing and evolving and there is a demand for veterinarians dedicated to this industry. The role of the veterinarian is vitally important in producing a safe, wholesome pork product in an efficient and responsible manner. If you have any interest in exploring the field of swine veterinary medicine, this is the perfect opportunity – you will gain valuable experience and be paid well for it.

Requirements for receipt of the stipend:

-  Be a 1st or 2nd year student at a US veterinary school
-  Be a student member of the American Association of Swine Veterinarians (AASV)
-  Have an interest in gaining experience in the swine industry by completing at least a one-month internship with a swine practitioner
 - We will assist you in finding an appropriate practitioner as your mentor
-  Apply to the American Association of Swine Veterinarians Foundation (AASVF) office by October 29, 2010
